

WILLIAMSON AGAIN.

He Appears This Time in the Role of a Poor Husband Trying to Provide for His Wife.

While a BAZOO representative was circulating around through the woods, about five miles north of town, this morning, he came in contact with a crowd of men in earnest conversation. The representative at once approached the crowd and inquired of John S. Woods, the whys and wherefores. On being asked who he was, he readily explained his mission and stated that he wanted to learn something in regard to the pasture. One thing led to another and finally some one spoke of old man Williamson who is confined in the county jail on the charge of murder of the Moores.

They stated that Williamson had figured a little in that section of the country, and was then in a very poor circumstance. When first seen by any of the party he was on the main road with his wife living in a dry goods box. The neighbors took pity upon him on account of his age, and went around the county soliciting food, garments, etc., until he had plenty. A party headed by Andy Earskin went to a strip of timber on the Earskin place and cleared a spot large enough to build a cabin, which they erected. Here Williamson lived for several months, working occasionally, but mainly depended on the neighbors for support. After a time he wished to move to where he could get more ground to cultivate and having no conveyance, again called on the people to help him. Several days were spent in getting him away, but finally he was removed to Muddy creek where his wife died.

They also stated that his wife was in good health and they have some doubt as to whether she died or not. After he left the woods he was not heard from again until arrested on the charge of murder. One of the party stated that it was quite a surprise to that neighborhood when it was learned that "Uncle Tom" had nerve enough to perpetrate such a deed.

They all claimed for Mrs. Williamson that she was a good wife, and bore her hardships with the fortitude of a chaste lady.

Although she was rarely at church it was supposed she did not attend owing to the lack of clothing.

MRS. WILLIAMSON.

A BAZOO reporter called at the jail this afternoon to learn something regarding Williamson's wife's history, and after relating what was heard north of the city, he said:

"My wife was named Susan Kerk and was born and raised near or in Sedalia, I forget now which. Her father was a farmer and I believe his name was Reed. I was her third husband, having married her in Centralia, Mo., three years ago last January. She was six years older than I am, and I am 54. She must have been 60 years of age at the time of her death."

"Did you ever live out north of the city?"

"Yes, I lived on John Banks' place for four or five months."

"Did you work for anyone while there?"

"Yes, for a man by the name of Nat Brown."

"Did you receive a salary for your labor, if so why were you in such a condition?"

"I received a salary from both of them."

"Now please state, when you left there, where you went and how you went?"

"I left the Banks' place and came to Sedalia, Andy Earskins brought me over, I staid in Sedalia for some time and then went out west of town into a log house that was already built."

"Who took you out?"

"A man whose name I have forgotten and who lives in Sedalia."

"How was the health of your wife at this time?"

"Very good."

After a few more remarks the reporter left. "Don't fail to send me a BAZOO this evening," said Williamson.

Dying of Hydrophobia.

Newton B. Ross, a farmer living six miles north of Slater, has lost four head of fat cattle from hydrophobia during the week. Friday morning another one of the herd was attacked with the fearful malady. There are nearly 100 head of cattle in the lot and fears are entertained that many of the number have been bitten by some rabid dog.

A NARROW ESCAPE

Of two Cyclers at Warrensburg Yesterday Morning.

F. E. Weaver, the young man who passed through the city Monday, on his bicycle from New Haven, Conn., to San Francisco, and W. T. Kugler of this city, had a very narrow escape at Warrensburg, yesterday morning. Mr. Weaver was accompanied from this city by W. T. Kugler, of the firm of Naugle & Kugler, intending to go as far as Kansas City. They rode as far as Knobnoster Monday, remaining there over night. During the night a storm came up and the rain fell in torrents, thus making the wagon road too muddy to travel. Mr. Weaver, very desirous of making great headway, decided to take the railroad track. All went well until they reached Warrensburg where they again stopped over night. The next morning they started on the track, intending to make it to Holden by dark. As they got to the bridge about a half a mile from Warrensburg, they heard a rumbling sound resembling a coming train, to which they paid no attention. When the center of the bridge was gained, Mr. Kugler observed the fast freight rounding the curve, not a hundred yards ahead. The first thought was to seek a place of safety, Kugler dropping between the ties and Weaver hanging on the side.

Kugler finding that his predicament was rather dangerous, attempted to follow Weaver's example, but he was too late, and had to run for the end of the bridge. He made it and had no more time than was necessary to escape for the freight came thundering along as he went down the embankment with his wheel.

Mr. Kugler arrived in the city last night, and to a BAZOO reporter said: "Of all my experiences, that was the worst predicament I was ever in. While I was between the ties Weaver was going over the side, and had I not followed him, I would have been no more. I am very thankful that it was no worse, as I got my leg skinned very badly." The young man is to be congratulated upon his safe return.

Good for Teachers.

A Kansas paper says: An exchange last week was pleading for a new law in behalf of the teachers in this state. It claimed that a great injustice was being done our educators by their having to pass an examination each year. It claimed that to no other profession was such injustice meted out, which is true. If a lawyer, physician or any other professional is granted a certificate or license, it is for all time and the exchange thinks teachers should be treated as well, and we believe they should.

WINE OF CARDUI FOR WOMEN.

A Girls Composition on Boys.

"Boys are men that have not got as big as their papas; and girls is young women that will be young ladies by-and-by. Man was made before women. When God looked at Adam he said to himself, 'Well I guess I can do better if I try again,' and then He made Eve. God liked Eve so much better than Adam that there has been more women than men ever since. Boys are a trouble. They are wearing on everything but soap. If I had my way, half the boys in the world would be little girls, and the rest would be dolls. My papa is so nice that I guess he must have been a little girl when he was a little boy."

Missouri in the Lead.

It is claimed by those who are engaged in the in the national Sunday school work that at the next international convention, June 25, Missouri will lead all other states in its Sunday school work. This will be hard to accept by some of the eastern centers of morality, but Missouri is full of surprises.

DEAD JOURNALIST.

Geo. D. Eastin, Formerly of Missouri, Died in the Montana Mad House.

Geo. D. Eastin, son of the late General Eastin, the old-timed editor of the Glasgow, Howard County Journal, died in the Montana insane asylum at Warm Springs, Montana, June 3d.

The subject of this sketch was doing work last year on the Helena, Montana, Independent, a morning paper. On the 18th day of last November, he was declared insane by the probate court at Helena. The case was chronicled in the Helena papers at the time as a very sad one and was supposed to have been caused by over work, resulting in the softening of the brain.

James Eastin, brother of George also well known in Missouri, in his evidence before the Probate Court on Nov. 18, 1889, told the history of his brother's ailment. He had noticed when first coming to Helena in April, 1889, that Mr. Eastin's physical condition was not as good as usual, and that he kept failing until last August when he noticed a nervousness and flighty spells. He then persuaded the invalid to go to some part of the country nearer the sea level. Instead, the latter went to Denver and finally returned, about six weeks ago, no better for his trip. Since then he has gradually grown worse, and has had various hallucinations.

George was in the insane asylum continually until his death. While there he was given the best medical attention that Montana or any State could furnish, but notwithstanding this, death came to his relief as above stated.

The deceased was a native of Missouri and about 38 years old, unmarried. He was a printer and writer having been taught both by his father who was a vigorous writer.

The Helena Journal of June 4 has the following:

"Word was received yesterday morning in Helena of the death of George D. Eastin, formerly editor of the Independent, and a very popular citizen of Helena during his short residence here. Mr. Eastin was for years in the newspaper field and for a long time connected with the pioneer press, of St. Paul, where he was not only considered a shining light among his fellows, but also a journalist and enterprising citizen. About two years ago failing health brought him west, but even the change of climate did not render the relief necessary, and after a few months sojourn here he was compelled to give up his work. His mind then became affected and he was taken to the asylum at Warm Springs and received the best medical treatment to be obtained in the state. Despite this condition became gradually worse until death came to his relief. At times, while at the resort, Mr. Eastin would show signs of improvement, but would again relapse. The journalists lose a bright and social member of their fellowship."

The T. S. F. Etc. Etc.

The New York World refers to an organization in London in the following forcible manner:

"There has been organized in London 'The Society for the Better Promotion of Relaxation from Business Cares and Enjoyment During Lunch Hours in the Municipality of London,' or for the sake of brevity, 'T. S. F. T. B. P. O. R. F. B. C. A. E. D. L. H. I. T. M. O. L.' We had something interesting to say about this organization, but its name has consumed all the space that a well-regulated newspaper can afford to devote to a theme of that character. The thing itself, with a greatly abbreviated name, is needed in this city."

Too Many Dogs.

There is altogether too great a number of dogs in this city. There are big dogs, little dogs, black dogs, "yaller" dogs, good dogs, bad dogs and just every day, ordinary dogs. There are "onery" dogs and "sooner" dogs. In fact there is every sort of dogs except mad dogs, they will come later on.

Watch for Frauds.

Jefferson City Tribune.

It cannot be too strongly impressed upon the farmers and laborers of this state that they must be on the lookout for charlatans and strolling tramp agitators who will infest the neighborhood as long as the present excitement lasts. These parasites can do no earthly good, but they may do much harm. Having never made a success of any business themselves, it is not at all reasonable that their opinions upon the present issues are of any value.

This class of men who are now urging themselves as leaders, bear no more relations to American industry than an Italian hand organ-grinder does to a first-class opera. They are the scum of creation and naturally come to the top when the pot begins to boil. In this country there is a remedy for wrongs through the ballot box. Long harangues will afford no relief.

The farmer complains that he can scarcely make a profit living although he works as many hours as ever. This is partly because he pays 50 per cent more for everything he purchases than what it is worth and partly because what he sells brings the poorest possible price. A reduction of the tariff will afford the farmer substantial relief and his remedy is to vote for no congressman who will not pledge himself to place the necessities of life on the free list. The laborer complains that his wages are too low and his hours of labor too long. A reduction of the tariff will benefit him as much as the farmer, because he can purchase the necessities of life with less money, which indirectly means an increase of wages.

The agitators have never yet handled the tariff question in a suitable way or pointed out a single method which promises the relief sought. For the most part they are indolent, ignorant men, with big mouths and a strong desire to live off of the credulity of the public. If they do an hour's work they will boast of it for a month afterwards. They are continually reminding the public that they are "working men," just as though the people do not know industry when they see it. Too many of this kind of men are going over the state belching out their own worthlessness and calling upon hard working people to take their advice.

It should not be inferred that all men who publicly discuss the issues referred to are irresponsible agitators, because such is not the case. Mr. U. S. Hall, state lecturer of the farmers' and laborers' organization, for example, is a very sensible man and what he says is well worth heeding. But the people can easily distinguish between the genuine and imitation article.

A Large Tumor.

Last Saturday a Mrs. Neal, aged about 45 years, from Miami, was relieved of a fibroid tumor weighing fifty-three pounds, and death resulted Sunday morning at 8 o'clock. The operation was performed by Dr. Lester Hall, at his office in Marshall assisted by Doctors John Hall, Mannin, McClorey, Tom Hall, Castain, Wheeler, of Herndon, and Herald of Arrow Rock, and other local physicians.

Mrs. Neal had been suffering from the tumor for the past five years, and was fully aware of the danger connected with the operation. The unfortunate woman realized that death would soon result from the tumor and resolved to undergo the terrible operation in the hope that the same would prove successful.

WILLIAMSON AS A THIEF.

His Former History is Again Shown up and is Anything but Savory.

The telegram below is from Hope-dale, Ill., to the Globe Democrat and gives more information in regard to the early history of the man who now stands charged with a triple murder. It also shows Williamson to be, not only a murderer, but a thief and house breaker, as well as a man capable of stealing cattle.

Williamson was seen by a BAZOO reporter in regard to the truthfulness of the article. He very readily admitted that the foregoing, as relating to his robbing a postoffice, was all true but says he stole no cattle and robbed no farmer of $20.

WILLIAMSON'S EARLY HISTORY.

Hope-dale, Ill., June 7.—Thomas A. Williamson, who is supposed to be the man charged with the triple murder at Sedalia, Mo., was once a resident of this county. He is a son of Reuben W. Williamson, now deceased, and is about 54 or 55 years old. When about 22 years old he had a severe spell of sickness, which resulted in a paralysis of one side. About the beginning of the war he, with an accomplice, robbed the Post Office at this place. Nothing of much value was taken and, owing to the excitement of the times and the respectability of his family, he escaped punishment. He then enlisted as a soldier, first in the 70th and afterward in the 108th Illinois Infantry, and was a very good soldier.

In 1886 he was found guilty of the murder of a man named Koch, of Delavan Township, this county. He was sentenced to be hanged March 29, 1887. The day previous to the execution a postponement was obtained to July 1, and on June 15 the Governor commuted the sentence to twenty-one years in the penitentiary. He was discharged about April 1, 1879.

He then went to Kansas and remained a short time, returning here about eight or nine years ago. After he had been here about a year and a half he stole $20 from a farmer and fled to Logan County, and shortly afterwards was sent to the Penitentiary for three years for stealing some cattle. Since that time nothing has been heard of him until the Sedalia murder.

Columbia's Summer Assembly.

Columbia Herald.

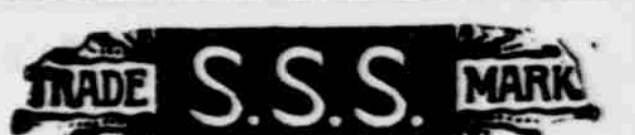

It is well known to the readers of the Herald that a movement is on foot to establish a Summer Assembly near Columbia. Hon. Thomas Shackelford, of Glasgow, has drawn up the articles of association and all who have read them concede that they are wise and able. We understand that this association is formed for the purpose of buying land near Columbia in order that the annual meetings may be held at this beautiful place.

We favor the enterprise for two reasons. It will be in keeping with our spirit of progress. We are not jealous of our neighboring towns, but we observe that while Fulton has had for many years the asylum, Deaf and Dumb institution, Westminster college, and the Female Home. Mexico built Hardin College several years ago, and now the Missouri Military Academy is to adorn that city. Moberly has her new depot and may secure a Government building. Fayette has erected a good public school building and now proposes to add seventy thousand dollars to Central College and twenty thousand to Howard college. Booneville has secured the reform school. These old conservative towns are catching the spirit of the present and are really booming. Such facts make this appeal to the citizens of Columbia and Boone county: "Buy the fair grounds and present the place to the association."

Again: The inevitable is upon us. One hundred camp-meetings in the East are announced in a single issue of a leading New York paper. These summer meetings are coming West. They are now in Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky and Illinois. As yet there are none in North Missouri, such as the one proposed for this place. These meetings are coming in Missouri. Shall we take fortune at its flood? Let Columbia lead the way, and add to the county interest spiritually, commercially and intellectually.

Democratic Primary Election.

At a meeting of the Democratic county committee of Pettis county, Mo., on May 3d 1890, it was ordered that a primary election be held in said county on Saturday August 2d, 1890, to nominate Democratic candidates for the following offices:

Representative, Eastern District.
Representative, Western District.
Presiding Judge of County Court.
Judge of County Court, Eastern District.
Judge of County Court, Western District.
Judge of Probate Court.
Prosecuting Attorney.
Sheriff.
Circuit Clerk.
County Clerk.
Recorder.
Collector.
Treasurer.
Assessor.
Coroner.
Public Administrator.

At the same time a member of the county committee will be elected for each township, except that three will be elected for Sedalia township. Polls will be open at the usual voting places in the county from 2 p. m., until 7 p. m., of the above named day, and the election conducted by judges and clerks to be appointed by the committee from the respective townships. If those appointed fail to act, the voters present will select others.

Tickets will be furnished by the judges, containing the names of all candidates who comply with the resolution of the committee. Voters will erase the names of all except those for whom they wish to vote, and the candidate receiving the greatest number of votes for the respective offices will be the nominees therefore. The votes of the various townships will be certified to the county committee, which will meet in Sedalia at 10 o'clock a. m., on Tuesday, August 5th 1890, to canvass the returns and declare the result.

All democrats, and all others wishing to co-operate with the democratic party, are invited to appear at their usual voting places at the time designated, and take part in this election.

All persons intending to be candidates at said election are requested to report their names without delay to the chairman of the county committee at Sedalia, and unless reported ten days before the election, their names will not be printed on the tickets.

By order of county committee, Sedalia, Mo., June 11, 1890.

A Fearful Heritage.

The transmission of BLOOD TAINTS entail fearful consequences, and those so afflicted, have urgent need to purify the blood thoroughly every spring. Neglect of this often leads to fearful complications of disease. A gentleman whose family were greatly afflicted writes us thus:

GENTLEMEN: My wife and babe, fourteen months old, and a boy of five have suffered for years from hereditary scrofula or King's evil, and would frequently break out in sores. I have employed the best physicians, but found nothing to relieve them until I tried Hibbard's Rheumatic Syrup. Have used fourteen bottles, and find to my astonishment they are entirely cured. Words cannot describe the value of your medicine as a blood purifier. I shall recommend it to all who are troubled from impure blood.
